OFFICERS HOTLY PURSUE NEW WALL ST. BOMB

NEW YORK WORLD LAYS CRIME TO WAR BETWEEN RIVAL LABOR UNIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Police and secret service agents worked with renewed vigor in their investigation of the Wall Street bomb outrage following the publication of the story that the infernal machine set off in Wall Street was the result of a war between rival house wrecking unions.

Police said they had identified the blacksmith who shod the horse which drew the bomb wagon and also identified the man who took the horse to the blacksmith.

Wm. Zaranki, head of one of the house wrecking unions, denied he had anything to do with the explosion. He was questioned at the Department of Justice offices but was not detained.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The great Wall Street explosion in September, which cost 30 lives and property damage of millions, was not caused by anarchists or Red activities but was the direct result of a war between rival labor unions in New York, according to a sensational story published by the Evening World today after an investigation of many weeks.

"The building trades graft was responsible for the crime," asserts the World.

The World said: "The Evening World here presents the story of the Wall Street explosion, which cost 30 lives and property damage of millions, was not caused by anarchists or Red activities but was the direct result of a war between rival labor unions in New York, according to a sensational story published by the Evening World today after an investigation of many weeks."

WIDOW OF LATE LORD MAYOR OF CORK COMING TO AMERICA TO TELL OF IRELAND

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Mrs. Muriel McSwiney, wife of the Lord Mayor of Cork has offered to come to Washington to testify before the American Commission on Ireland and her offer has been accepted, it was announced by the Commission today. Whether or not Mrs. McSwiney could get passports for the trip has not been looked into, it was said.

ARRESTED A DESERTER

Chief of Police Hitt picked up an army deserter last evening on Market street in the person of Robert William Fleming, who is a member of Co. D, 8th Eng., 7th Div., located at Camp Funston, Kansas. Young Fleming took French leave from his company last July and officers have been on the hunt for him ever since. His home is in Curwensville.

Misses Anna Pickering and Agnes John spent yesterday with friends in Philadelphia. Mrs. A. M. Wright left this morning for Philadelphia where she will spend several days.

RABBIT HUNTERS KILL RATTLESNAKE NEAR HOME CAMP

Emory Hoover, of DuBois and A. C. Hoover of Altoona, spent the first day of rabbit season in the vicinity of Home Camp, near Rockton, hunting rabbits. They were quite successful and bagged sixteen fine rabbits. One of the rabbits took refuge from the dogs in a hollow log and while the hunters were engaged in punching bunny out of his hiding place they were not a little surprised to have a four foot rattlesnake stick his ugly head out of the hole in the log right in their faces and then slowly crawl out into the open and coil ready for battle.

The rattler was not as frisky as he would have been in July and fell easy prey to a club in the hands of Emory Hoover. We have heard of rattlers sometimes being captured in October but this is the first time on record, we think, when a rattlesnake was killed in these mountains so late in the fall as November 1st.

ELEVENTH STREET METHODIST CHURCH GREATLY IMPROVED

For quite some time the members of Eleventh Street church had contemplated making certain necessary repairs and improvements to their church property. During the past few months this has been accomplished. The improvements in part are as follows:

The exterior of both church and parsonage have been painted, and the remaining half of the parsonage cellar has been concreted. A new concrete approach has been laid in front of the church for the accommodation of those who come to church in cars or other conveyance.

A much needed toilet has been placed in the basement of the church. The beautiful memorial windows have been repaired. The auditorium and adjoining rooms have been revarnished. Considerable rewiring has been done as a matter of convenient operation and new lights have been installed.

The chief improvement, however, is that of re-painting of the walls and ceiling which have been executed in delicate shades that greatly please all who have seen them, and the new velvet brussels carpet which most beautifully harmonizes with the general scheme of the room.

Considering the interior of the church as a whole it is most beautiful.

On Sunday morning, November 14, the first service of the re-opening occasion will be held. Former pastors and others will occupy the pulpit during the nights of the week the closing service of the occasion will be held Sunday evening, November 21st. The public will find a cordial welcome to any or all of these services. See program in another column of The Progress.

MR. AND MRS. SINGER PROMOTED

L. G. Singer and wife, who have been earnest workers connected with the local branch of the Salvation Army, left today for Johnstown where they will locate. Mr. Singer has been promoted to a captaincy in the Ambulance Division of the Salvation Army and will at once take up his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Singer have been among the mainstays of the Salvation Army in Clearfield the past ten or twelve years and their recognition and promotion to a larger field is a just recognition of their services and is much appreciated by their many Clearfield friends.

Miss Grace Butler spent last evening with friends in Philipsburg.

ROAD OPEN TO BIGLER ONLY

Many automobile drivers using the Philipsburg-Clearfield state road from Woodland to Bigler appear to be under the impression that the new cement road is completed and open for traffic even beyond Bigler. This is not so. The connecting link between the two villages was opened Wednesday and it is now possible to use the main road from Clearfield through to Philipsburg without traveling the detours.

Many drivers when they reach Bigler continue around on the cement road and soon reach the end of the cement at the construction camp of Warren Bros. a few rods beyond the station. There is hardly room at this point to turn around in and if you wish to avoid this difficulty kindly remember that the new road is only travelable between Woodland and Bigler. At this point just cross the Pennsy track and continue up the old dirt road thru Bigler proper.

FLEET OF AIRPLANES CONTINUE SEARCH FOR MISSING NAVAL SEAPLANE S2L

GREAT LAKES, ILL., Nov. 12.—A fleet of aeroplanes continued their search today for the missing seaplane S2L, which left here Wednesday morning with a crew of 3 and was last seen on Wednesday afternoon rising over the water at Sheboygan, Wis. Hope that any of the crew had survived was abandoned by experienced seamen today. They said it would be impossible for a plane to stay upon the water in a snow storm and 70 mile wind which blew last night.

RAPIDLY DECLINING WHEAT PRICES CAUSE BIG DROP IN PRICE OF FLOUR

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The public is being given the benefit of the declining wheat prices in the buying of flour, leading grocers said here today. Chain grocers charge $10.72 a barrel for flour while others ask $13.20. The wholesale price is $10.05 a barrel. Flour reached its peak on May 11, when flour was selling wholesale at $17 a barrel. At that time chain grocers were charging $13.50 while others charged $19.20.

LEGION BANQUET ENJOYED BY MEN AND THEIR GUESTS

One of the most pleasant peace time social affairs of the season was enjoyed last evening at The Dimeling Hotel where members of The American Legion and their wives, mothers and lady friends banqueted to celebrate the second anniversary of the signing of the armistice and the subsequent return to home and friends of millions of young men.

The food was up to the usual fine Dimeling standard and the service was excellent. When the tasty viands had been tucked away Toastmaster E. A. Stewart started the oratorical barrage by calling on Comrade Julian Chase who read the adopted principles of The American Legion. The heavy artillery was then cut loose under the leadership of the "Big Bertha" of the evening. The judge as a wartime speech maker needed no introduction and his peace time efforts were equally effective.

It was indeed an honored privilege to spend such an evening and those who were present are hoping that it will be an annual affair.

Armistice Day was celebrated very quietly in Clearfield yesterday. The American Legion kept open house at their rooms in the County National bank building. The American Legion and gave a delightful concert to a large and appreciative audience during the afternoon while J. J. Griffin and Kid Henderson, local pugilists, put on a very creditable boxing bout under the direction of Manager Edwards.

The Legion boys gave away several hundred holes with dough around them, like the Salvation Army lassies supplied "over there" and furnished "opious tinsful of root beer to wash the dough down with during the afternoon.

All the business places were closed during the afternoon. There were a lot of things missing that were enjoyed on armistice day two years ago, but then the country is much drier now.

Mrs. Clara Bumgardner of Woodland, spent yesterday shopping in town.

Miss Nell Mills, of DuBois, is visiting her grand parents Mr. and Mrs. David McGarvey on Pint street.

OUR CONSTITUTION

As the study of the State Constitution by the chosen reviewers and amenders proceeds one important fact stands out clearly, that is there is mighty little in the fundamental instrument which requires change. Justifiable revision, perhaps, may be found in some conditions which have come about through the development of industry along new lines, the conservation necessary to safeguard our great natural resources and other obvious amendment where no material interest is affected, but where modification of certain articles and sections may be regarded as warranted in order to harmonize the instrument as a whole.

It must be reassuring to the average Pennsylvanian proud of his state to realize that the foundations of our government after nearly half a century have so well sustained the structure of a great Commonwealth without a sign of serious weakening at any point. It is likewise a comfortable feeling one must experience when he observes the sanity and great good sense which characterize the deliberations of the commission.

Some rather radical proposals have been submitted, of course, but these have never gone beyond the stage of discussion, so that when the Legislature receives the completed work it will find little that may be reasonably criticised even if the report shall have no further consideration than as a careful study of a Constitution which has so well stood the test.

EXCERPTS FROM HARDING'S

ARMISTICE DAY SPEECH

"We have only to go on independent and free and untrammelled and unmortgaged to reach the supreme fulfillment. We choose no alcohism, we shirk no obligation. We forsake no friends. We never have; we never will. But we built in nationality and we do not mean to surrender. We crave fraternity; we wish amiable relations everywhere; we offer peace and choose to promote it, but we demand our freedom and our own America."

This keynote of what the nation's foreign policy is to be under his administration was struck by President-elect Harding in an address at the Armistice Day celebration. The President-elect made no specific mention of the Versailles League of Nations, nor of the new fraternity of nations he will seek to establish. Whatever form the new relations among the nations may assume, however, he plainly indicated he will not favor a program which entrusts entirely to international arrangements, the national safety of this country, but will insist upon the maintenance of a state of preparedness which at all times will enable it to defend itself.

Diverting from his prepared speech the President-elect said he agreed with all that has been said about America leading the way to peace and declared again that America will play her part, but added:

"But I like to say, a nation that is not good enough to fight for its not good enough to live in. I want a republic that can defend itself."

Stingiest Person.

A man in our neighborhood recently became independent by receiving a good position and at the end of the first week's pay his father presented him with a bill containing the expense of the young man ever since he was born, including the expense of the attending physician when he came into the world; this was all added up and compound interest was charged. The boy without a murmur has begun to pay it all back to his father. The amount would buy a nice home.—Chicago American.

Mr. E. W. Marshall, Brampton, Michigan, suffering from Systemic Catarrh involving Head, Nose, Throat and Stomach, claims a complete cure. His letter is convincing.

"For the past two years I have been troubled with systemic catarrh. I used several boxes of Pe-Ru-Na tablets and they have effected a complete cure. I do not hesitate to recommend Pe-Ru-Na for all catarrhal conditions."

Mr. Marshall is just one of many thousands who have been benefited by Dr. Hartman's famous medicine in the past fifty years.

It is by stimulating the digestion, enriching the blood and cooling the nerves that Pe-Ru-Na is able to exert such a soothing, healing influence upon the mucous membranes which line the body. It is a wonderfully effective remedy to restore strength after a contracted sickness, the grip or Spanish influenza.

"Foot And Hands Like Ice" Said Mrs. F. Swigert Of Lexington

But These Troubles And Her Other Nervous Ills Were Quickly Remedied by Nerv-Worth.

"I want to offer my testimonial and endorsement to Nerv-Worth," said Mrs. Swigert. "I suffered for years with nervous troubles, and I had taken a lot of medicine and doctored considerably. My heart fluttered and I was short of breath, and I suffered from terrible nervous headaches, usually on the top of my head, and I couldn't sleep at all. My circulation was poor, and I was always cold as death, my feet and hands were like ice, I had no appetite. I have taken Nerv-Worth and I feel better now than any time since I first became sick. I sleep good and feel refreshed in the morning, and my appetite is good. I have no more heart trouble, my headaches are gone, my circulation is good, and I am no longer troubled with cold feet, and my hands are improving. "I recommend Nerv-Worth to my friends and neighbors. To those who suffer from nervous afflictions, the above statement will carry a message of hope for it tells in a most convincing manner how quickly Nerv-Worth overcomes these troubles. Go to your druggist today and get a bottle. Remember if you are not satisfied after you have taken your first bottle, your money will be refunded. Porpoise a Fast Swimmer.

There is another mammal that is so fast no one has ever been able to find out how fast he is. This is the porpoise. The porpoise can do stunts in front of the fastest boat that travels the bounding wave and when he is through after several hours of clowning he flirts his tail and nonchalantly swims beyond the horizon. The porpoise will do his tricks under the bow of a nine knot cargo tramp or a 22-knot ocean greyhound. He is like the aviator in that he sets his pace according to the speed of the pursuer.

Bird Outruns Horse.

Anyone who has traveled through western Texas becomes familiar with the mesquite tree, or, as it sometimes grows, a shrub. In some places where it may grow to 40 feet high, it is common. The mesquite Forestry Magazine of Washington, D. C. is a scrubby and makes into dense clumps, it being the home of that famous bird the "road-runner" or chaparral cock, and other species. The road runner is really a big ground cuckoo, that only takes to flight when hard pressed, while on open ground it can run so fast that an ordinary horse cannot keep up.

LESSON EIGHTEEN

Is there a class of people who are especially subject to eye strain?

Yes, those who do much near work, such as reading, sewing or desk work naturally are liable to strain their eyes.

Is it possible for a person whose eyes are normal to have eye strain? Yes, the class referred to above, constant readers, or writers, or those whose work requires reuniting near use of the eyes often have eye strain even though their eyes are normal.

What relief has Optometry to offer to those who have normal sight yet who suffer from eye strain by reason of the excessive near work they do? Glasses can be prescribed for near use only, and the wearing of such will help the eyes greatly and prevent the strain.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 14

THE POWER AND AUTHORITY OF JESUS.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 8 and 9.
GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus went about all the cities and villages teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness, and every disease among the people.—Matt. 9:35.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mark 1:23, 2:12; Luke 1:1-10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Forgiving Sins.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Heals a Centurion's Servant.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Response of Jesus to Human Need.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity and Physical Needs.

In chapters 8 and 9 are grouped a number of miracles which exhibit what the King can do over the chief foes of mankind—sickness, sin, satanic power, death, sorrow and storms. It is fitting that they should be grouped here, following the laws of the kingdom, for they show the King's power to administer the affairs of the kingdom, and produce within his subjects the graces of character set forth in these laws. It will make the lesson too long to attempt to consider all these miracles. It will also be unsatisfactory to confine ourselves to the particular section selected by the lesson committee, so we will select several of the most outstanding ones.

I. Jesus Heals a Leper (8:1-13).

1. This dreadful disease was the most loathsome and hopeless known. In the Jewish ritual it was regarded as a symbol of sin. It was incurable by man. Only the Divine Physician can cure sin.

2. The leper's faith. His cry was most pitiable, but his faith was strong. He fully believed that Jesus was able, but was uncertain as to his willingness to heal him.

3. Jesus' power. He put forth his hand and touched the leper, bidding the disease to depart, and instantly the man was clean.

II. Jesus Heals the Centurion's Servant (8:13-17).

1. The disease—paralysis. In paralysis the victim is helpless and disqualified for service.

2. The centurion's faith. He believed that if Jesus would but speak the word his servant would be healed.

3. The wonderful power of the King. He did not need to go to see the centurion's slave and touch him, but only needed to speak the word and it was done.

III. Jesus Calms the Sea (8:23-27).

1. The King asleep in the storm-tossed boat (v. 24). Since the King is the Almighty Creator, he had no reason to fear, and therefore, could well be resting in sleep.

2. The terrified disciples (v. 25). If they had but known him as really the Almighty King they would not have been terrified, for they would have known that no boat could go down with the Christ on board.

3. The King's rebuke (v. 26, 27). (1) The disciples rebuked for their lack of faith. Instead of looking at the Lord, they were looking at the circumstances. (2) The sea is made calm. The elements of nature are subject unto him.

IV. Jesus Casts Out Demons (8:28-34).

1. Met by two men possessed by demons (v. 28). By referring to Mark 5:1-7 and Luke 9:37 we get a conception of the desperate condition of these men. So fierce were they that no one could safely pass that way.

2. What they knew about Christ (v. 29). They knew that he was the Son of God and that he had come to destroy the Devil and his works.

3. The limitation of the Devil's power (v. 31). Although the Devil is mighty, he cannot even enter a hog without God's permission.

4. Christ's power to deliver from the Devil (v. 33). The demons quailed before him not daring to dispute his power, but begged permission to enter the swine.

V. Jesus Healing a Woman With an Issue of Blood (9:20-22).

1. Her helpless condition (v. 20). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years.

2. Her faith (v. 21). Her faith was so strong that she believed contact with the Master's garment would secure the needed help.

3. Her confession (v. 21; cf. Luke 8:47). Jesus had her make a public confession. It was for her good that he had her make this confession, for faith in Christ unconfessed will naturally weaken.

4. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 22). He told her that it was her faith, not her touch, that saved her.

Proper Amusements.

Thousands of people demand amusements. Thousands of dollars are spent in that behalf. But there is absence of plan, concert, and co-operation. The Devil steps in and takes the profit. The people want but little here below nor want that little long. Why may we not have more of the amusement which strengthens and ennobles? One rich man by his own unaided beneficence might provide healthful amusement for a whole city. Why does not beneficence turn in this direction?—Humphrey J. Desmond.

Rev. S. W. McGarvey spent yesterday at the home of David McGarvey on Pine street.

Turning the Luck.
In Yorkshire, country folk cross their thumbs "to turn the luck" should they meet a single magpie. In Scotland a magpie seen near a dwelling is believed to portend death to one of the inmates.

Beneficial Vegetables.
The value of dried apple as a protective food is shown by experiments in the laboratory. The green leaf vegetables are next in value in the protection from scurvy. A small amount of cabbage added to an otherwise deficient ration will keep guinea pigs in good condition for more than a year. The third class of foods in the prevention of scurvy is the root vegetables. Onions, potatoes and carrots were found in the experiments to retain enough of the protective element to carry guinea pigs through reproduction.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MACK'S JOURNEYS

"I had a fine time," said Mack, the Alfred dog, "last summer. I went on journeys you know. Maybe you don't know what journeys are, so I will tell you. When one goes on a journey, one takes a trip and when one takes a trip one goes on a journey.
I do hope that is quite clear," and Mack wagged his tail.

"When one goes on a journey or takes a trip, for both are the same, one travels by train or by boat or by automobile. Some journeys are by airship, but I'm glad to say I haven't traveled that way so far and I hope I never will. I feel quite sure I wouldn't like it."

"But," Mack continued, "I was telling you about last summer and what a good time I had. I had all my mistress whose name is Mildred and her whole family took me down to the seashore. It was a beautiful place and I had very good food. Some of the people said the food wasn't good but I didn't complain. Mildred brought me a great dish of things to eat three times every day—nice meats and vegetables and powerfully good bones."

"What are powerfully good bones?"
asked the dog to whom Mack was talking.

"Well, my dear fellow," said Mack,
"you don't mean to tell me you don't know what bones are? I trust you're quite well and that you're not going mad?"

"Of course I know what bones are," the other dog said. "Of course, if I didn't know I would surely be going
mad."

"You know what good bones are too?" asked Mack.

"Indeed yes," said the other dog.
"Then you do not know what powerfully good bones are?"

"That big word in there is a bit difficult," the other dog said.

"It means extremely good, tremendously good," said Mack. "It means fine and all of that."

"Oh yes," said the other dog. "Pray forgive the interruption and continue your story."

"Quite all right," said Mack, who was the most good-natured dog you ever saw in all your born days. "You are quite forgiven."

And Mack wagged his tail to prove that the other dog was forgiven."

"Well," he continued, "we went to the seashore by train and then by automobile and then by boat. Quite a fine trip."

"We used to go bathing at the seashore, although I didn't think so much of bathing as my family did. Gracious how they did like it. Mildred's mother would let the waves go right over her head time and time again and every time her head came up she would be laughing and seeming to enjoy it all hugely. After we had spent quite a time at the seashore we left there one morning. Mildred carried a box of pony biscuits so I would be quite all right on the trip. And she took me on a loush with a muzzle hanging down from my collar in case fussy people might think that I should be muzzled by a leash I should be muzzled and then she would put it on me."

"We all went off, all of us. The family had trunks and suit cases and made a great fuss in seeing that they went along too. I never knew a person who didn't fuss about trunks in that way."

"I've heard everyone talking in the same fashion when they were going on a journey. Ah, there I must have been a comfort to them. I had no trunk and no suit case to bother about and I am sure it must have been a relief to feel that Mack, the dog, at least didn't have to bother them about his luggage."

"Then we went away on a boat and then we went for a train where my ticket was bought for the baggage car.
We finally arrived at a great big farm where we spent the rest of the summer having the most beautiful sort of a time."

"And at last we went back home when the autumn came."

"But I believe we're going to have more journeys this summer and I've heard that all the people at the seashore have sent word to my family saying—"

"Please spend all of the summer at the seashore for we want you all, including Mack! Isn't that nice to think that even Mack is wanted?"

Johnny's wish.
"Mamma," said Johnny, "I wish I had a little sister."

"Why do you wish that, dear?" asked his mother.

"'Cause I'm tired of teasing the cat."

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

CURWENSVILLE, Nov. 12—Armistice Day was celebrated in Cur-wensville yesterday by a program that was a befitting one for the time and occasion. It seems hardly possible that 270 days have passed away since the word was flashed into every city, town and hamlet in the United States that an armistice had been entered into by Germany and her allies and Great Britain, France, Belgium, Canada, the United States and several other smaller nations of the world, pending an agreement by which the greatest and most destructive wars the civilized world ever knew. Gladness entered into thousands of homes and prayer offered up y mothers, sisters and wives, whose kindred were in the armies fighting on foreign soil, that the cessation of hostilities would end in peace, and that their relatives would be returned to their American homes, without any more shedding of blood. Eventually peace was declared and those who had not found graves thousands of miles from kindred returned home to again take up and shoulder the burden of private life.

For almost a month the members of Joshua Earl Stipes Post No. 505, American Legion have been preparing to properly observe Armistice Day, having a two-fold purpose in view, the dedication and formal opening of their new headquarters on the second floor of the brick block, corner of Meadow and Filbert streets, and the signing of the armistice which negotiations finally brought to a close the death struggle in which they were then engaged.

During all day Thursday the rooms were opened for public inspection and it is estimated by those who had charge, that no less than five hundred visitors made a call, and every single one of them were astonished at the fine furniture, covered floors and everything else that goes to make up a neat and comfortable home, wherein the ex-service men can assemble and conduct the business relative to the government of their lodge, as well as a pleasant place to spend an evening in social comradeship, reading of the papers and magazines or a friendly game of cards, checkers, dominoes or any other amusements which might strike their fancy.

At noon time all industries, business houses and public schools closed down as per request of the American Legion Post. The first number, in starting off with the afternoon's program, was a football game between Phillipsburg and a home team at the Athletic park grounds, on the other side of the river, at promptly three o'clock. The weather was just right the teams pretty evenly watched and both entered the contest determined to win. The game had not progressed far when it became evident to the three hundred spectators, that Curwensville sound was putting up the most crafty and scientific game for them this season and if they kept up the same speed throughout the game as they started in with, they would win hands down which at the conclusion of the game proved out that they did, for they trounced their opponents to the tune of 33-0 despite the fact that Bailey, of Phillipsburg tried to put over a few stunts, unworthy of a true sport of the game which, in several instances almost started a rough and tumble fight.

At 8 o'clock in the evening, the parade formed in front of Legion headquarters, the Grand corner hand in the lead. The line was made up of ex-service men, Civil and Spanish-American war veterans, Rescue Hose and Ladder company, in parade uniform, Boy Scouts, pupils from the public schools, each grade carrying some sort of a banner and wearing headress representing Red Cross and other organizations, some half a hundred middle aged ladies, probably the wives and mothers of the soldier boys. The Keystone and Crescent bands marched in different sections of the line, and quickened the step of the marchers with live patriotic music. By an actual count there were close to four hundred people in line, who after traversing the main thoroughfares of the town, were dismissed, one third of them going to the Legion rooms to be entertained by the balance of the evening's program, which the managers and participants had prepared with great care, and for the purpose of interesting and entertaining the vast number of people who, taxed the floor space to full seating capacity and compelling a goodly number to stand upright throughout time it required to carry out the entire program.

The program started out by a fine selection of appropriate music by the McKinley orchestra which pleased the vast throng, judging from the hearty applause at its close. Invocation followed by Pastor Cameron of the Baptist church. Then came the address of welcome by Post Commander

Girl Scouts Now Discover Baby Tending Beats Dolls

Baby Tending Is Favorite Occupation of Girl Scouts

HE is fair, fat and fourteen months and his nurse is a Girl Scout, who comes to his home every day for three months and acts as his mother-by-proxy. She gives him a daily bath, prepares his food, dresses him, takes him out in the perambulator, and later puts him to bed. Before she's through, she loves every inch of her "orphaned baby" and knows every dimple by heart. It's all to the end of becoming an expert baby-tender, so she may wear a merit badge on her right sleeve. But here's a secret: even after the badge has been won and the time is up, the little Scout nurse may be seen trotting back to her baby, to count his teeth, or hear his new gurgle, or watch him take a first unsteady step. She started out merely a Girl Scout, you see, but she ended up a devoted little mother. Baby-tending is one of the favorite Girl Scout activities for playing mother is always a little girl's pet game, and real babies are so much more fun than dolls. A baby, for instance, will splash in his bath; a doll is really very stupid about such things, and doesn't even bat an eye-lash no matter what you do. And dolls don't grow. But any Girl Scout can tell you that every day shows a change in her baby. Even their eyes change color! One Girl Scout is still boasting about her wonderful infant, who started out with blue eyes and then changed 'em to brown!

At present, applicants to Girl Scouting and its activities are being turned away for lack of funds in developing the organization. It is to meet this financial need that a National Decker Membership campaign has been instituted for November 15th to the 15th. Just 1,033,400 adult members are needed before every girl who wants to be a Scout can be admitted.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Look Young! Nobody can tell if you use Grandmother's simple recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge of soft brush with it and draw this thru your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"WELL, OLD MAN, HOW ARE YOU?"

If Your Blood is Rich and Red You Say, "Fine"

ENTHUSIASM IS RED-BLOODED

Try Pepto-Mangan if You Feel Weak and Look Pale

Sometimes you are almost down and out. You know you are not really sick, but you have a petered-out feeling. You get little. You drag along. In the morning you look at your face in the mirror. You feel years older when you see how pale and haggard you are.

It is your blood. It needs red corpuscles. Instead of poking along half-sick, why don't you try taking Pepto-Mangan, the blood tonic? It has just the ingredients weak blood needs. With red blood your energy and enthusiasm return. You eat better. You tackle work and achieve.

Pepto-Mangan is widely and heartily endorsed by physicians. It is effective and easy to take. It is solid in both liquid and tablet form. The medicinal properties are identical.

Sold at any drug store. But be sure to get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." Ask for it by the name and be sure the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package.

LEGION MEN AS LIFE-SAVERS

Members of Havana Post Lend Aid in Protecting Bathing at the Playa de Marianao.

Bathers on the beach at Havana now are placing reliance for their safety on members of The American Legion who are doing duty as life-savers. As the laws of Cuba do not compel the public beaches to supply life guards Havana post of the Legion offered the services of 20 of its members, who had qualified for the American Red Cross life saving corps, and excellent work has been done by them at the Playa de Marianao, where they are stationed. Havana post numbers 112 members and has long been active in the life of

20,000 IN LINE OF MARCH

Ex-Service Men Representing Every State and Far-Off Outposts at Cleveland Convention.

Twenty thousand ex-service men, representing every state in the Union and far-off outposts where the Stars and Stripes flies, swung through the streets of Cleveland, O., in the great opening parade at the second annual convention of The American Legion.

Leading the parade were hundreds of disabled veterans of the World War in automobiles, while behind them came 31 winners of the Congressional Medal of Honor. For two solid miles the sidewalks and stands were packed with cheering spectators as the veterans passed in review.

Frequent picturesque incidents served to lend color to the parade as the long column of olive-drab and navy blue tramped down the line of march. Le Roy Williams, a Grand Army of the Republic veteran, who won the Congressional Medal of Honor at the battle of Cold Harbor, joined the medal of honor men and marched the entire route. A huge flag that stretched across the street, borne by Legionnaires of Akron, O., was showered with coins by the spectators until more than $5,000 was in its folds.

The delegates from Paris, Cuba, Panama, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Mexico and the Philippine Islands, who had traveled thousands of miles to attend the convention, received a tremendous ovation from the crowd. Army nurses and former yeomanettes came in for their share of the applause, and a sensation was created by the Montana delegation, which appeared in leather chaps, spurs and sombreros.

More than 300,000 spectators viewed the parade, which was declared to be the greatest spectacle ever staged in Cleveland.

Lower Prices On Fall Coats

The arrival of shipments of coats bought at the new market prices enables us to give you exceptional values on Fall Coats of wonderful quality and style.

Two striking features punctuate this unusual selling event. First, the assortments are so complete, that fashion's whim finds expression in the garments on display. There are simpler modes beautifully and sturdily tailored for utility wear, and there are more elaborate Coats and lovely Wraps that anticipate every winter need. Yet happily, the beauty and newness of the style, the correctness of the tailoring and the worthiness of the material and artistry of trimming, is supplemented by a welcome note in prices. The favorable turn of market conditions makes it possible for every woman to possess a new Coat or Wrap at a price far below the standard of past months.

The Charge Account

By EVELYN LEE

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

"The mischief!"

Percy Bliss was not given to the use of forcible expletives and this ejaculation expressed all the wonderment, dismay and anxiety of which he was capable. He stood dazed, almost pallid, after a vivid shock, staring blankly at a sheet of paper in his hand. He had come home to his sumptuous flat which housed his beloved and cherished bride of a year, to find her absent, and then, making a startling discovery, to his disgusted imagination its beauty and comfort seemed fading into desolate ruins all about him.

Upon a table beside the telephone was a number. He groaned as he recognized that the last act of his wife was to call up her dearest friend and confidant, Miss Iona Walters. Crushing the sheet in his hand, Percy dashed from the house, nor paused nor faltered until he had reached the office of Wallace Blight. He burst in upon him breathless and agitated, closing the office door so they might be alone.

"Wallace," he exclaimed hoarsely, throwing himself into a chair, "you've got me into the trouble of my life!"

Blight stared at his agitated visitor blankly. It was unusual to see his placid, systematic friend other than serene and satisfied.

"What has happened?" propounded

Wallace. "Been having a tiff with Dorothy?"

"We never have tiffs," disavowed

Percy resentfully. "It's worse than that, Wallace—I probably have broken her heart!"

"You amaze and alarm me!" spoke

Blight, really aroused at the earnest manner of Bliss.

"You remember coming to me a month ago in what you called a terrible fix?"

"You mean the Adrienne Ballingford affair? I certainly do. I needed money or credit for a few hundred dollars.

That was before I got my share of my uncle's fortune. But I paid you back,

Percy."

"Which did not and does not matter. I would give ten times the amount to get out of the dilemma in which my slight accommodation has placed me.

You had been smitten with the stage beauty, Adrienne Ballingford, a year ago and written her some silly letters.

"All true. I got the letters and paid you back the three hundred dollars you became responsible for."

"Yes, and today, an unusual thing, for my bills usually come to my office,

the one for those wretched goods came to my house. Dorothy read it. Just think what she must think of an order for two kimono, six pairs of silk stockings and a lot of other follies of feminine adornment!"

Blight looked startled now. "Why, say, if she learns the truth and it gets to the ears of Nellie's parents, think of the awful position I am in! Oh, my,

a terrible mess I've made of it!"

"I can't give you away," observed

Percy in a troubled tone.

"And I can't break up your household by allowing you to take the blame."

For some moments the worried twin sat gloomily silent, mutually going over the situation.

"I've got it!" cried Wallace suddenly, leaping to his feet. "Come with me. Right away straight to Day &

Co.'s we'll go. Got the original bill?"

"Yes."

"We'll duplicate it."

"What do you mean—what good will

that do?"

Wallace whispered in Percy's ear.

Instantly the face of the latter brightened. They dashed from the office.

One hour later the two schemers entered the Bliss flat. They carried a variety of bundles. The contents were stored in a drawer in Percy's desk.

Two hours later still, with a relieved mind and bright eyes Percy again entered the flat. His wife greeted him with a tear-stained face.

"Oh, Percy!" she sobbed, "I have found you out. How cruelly you have deceived me. Married on my birthday and our first anniversary here only day after tomorrow! Kimonos! silk stockings! a mesh bag! a fur coat!

Oh, who is this mysterious female who has wrecked our home!"

"Aha!" cried Percy, in an injured tone. "I think I surmise. Did that stupid Day & Co. send a bill to the house instead of to my office?"

"Yes, they did."

"Dorothy, come here!"

Percy led his wife into his den and up to his desk. He drew open its drawer.

"It's a shame to spoil a surprise," he said, stern as a judge, "but, the cat being out of the bag, I shall have to subdue your hysterics. There! You can't say I am not glad to think of you on your birthday."

There lay all the articles Dorothy had named and many more. Over her face a great joyous glow began to spread.

"Oh, you thoughtful, loyal darling!"

she cried. "And I have so unjustly treated you! And there isn't any mysterious character! And you are the sweetest, dearest, king of husbands!

So there! and there! and there!"

And serenely Percy Bliss tallied off each kiss awarded with a silent chuckle. "I've saved poor Wallace," he told himself with satisfaction, "but never again say experimenting with my charge account."
